During cold weather, the insulating effect of your windows is most apparent. Typically, 75% of a window is glass. The better insulated your window is, the more comfortable your home will be.

The insulating capability of LoE²-270 is a key factor in the construction of quality windows used in cold climates. The dramatic warmth provided means the relative humidity of the indoor air can be controlled and maintained. Proper humidity levels (not too much, not too little) will improve comfort and promote a healthier living environment.

Feldco™ custom-sized, vinyl bay and bow windows bring a richness to your home no other window can match. Run your fingers over the smooth, hand-sanded furniture finish of birch or optional oak veneer. Enjoy the exclusive, maintenance free, over-the-edge design that helps keep your windows cleaner. Choose from shingled or metal, hip or shed-style roof designs to enhance your home's architecture. Add a unique flair to your bay or bow by selecting from the beautiful decorative options of the DreamGlas® Gallery Collection, which combine insulating glass technology with the elegant look of stained glass.
